The wagon with which his car collided was being driven by George W. Knight. It passed in front of the trolley, of which E. W. Rudd was motorman. While the latter tried to avoid the collision his efforts were unsue. The rumor was held to be a mere recollision, his efforts were unsuc-ful. The tongue of the vehicle was the collision, his efforts were the cessful. The tongue of the vehicle was snapped, and, as the car passed, Jones, who was standing on the runningboard, was struck by the broken end, sustaining slight scratches about his foot. Coroner Brodmax, who viewed the body, deemed an inquest unnecessary. The body will be taken to Mcklenburg this morning. The father and a brother came to Richmond last night to accompany the remains.

North Richmond, the section lying just north of Barton Heights, was made an incorporated township in an order entered by Judge R. Carter Scott in the Henrico Circuit Court yesterday. Steps will be taken shortly to organize the new town by the election of a Mayor and town council, and for the laying of a special tax levy to raise funds for improvements, including schools, lights, water, sewerage and other conveniences. The new township will take its place with Barton Heights, Highland Park and Ginter Park, all incorporated, though by ing in the county of Henrico.

The incorporation, it is stated, will have no bearing on the question of an anexation to Richmond, as under the State law the city deals with the county direct, through a judge from some other section of the State. In annexation proceedings townships of this character do not come under the provision of cities having more than 5,000 population, as was the case in Manchester, where the act for the consolidation of cities applied, the lesser city submitting to the people in a popular election the question of surrendering its separate charter.

"Lonnie ought not to have done it, commented Captain Taylor, promptly shifting the blame to the secretary of the department, and forgetting that he had just claimed authorship of the report. He agreed to take the report back and make the paragraph conform to Chief Joynes's statements, which he did, the copy already in the hands of the city printer for publication being also corrected.
